Search engines will index all pages on your website, including pages that are not intended to be indexed. This can be a problem because search engines will rank these pages as well as the pages you want to rank. This can lead to a lower ranking for the pages you want to rank.

Pages that are not intended to be indexed should be blocked from search engines. This can be done by using the robots.txt file. The robots.txt file is a text file that tells search engines which pages on your website they are allowed to crawl and index. The robots.txt file is located in the root directory of your website. You can create a robots.txt file by editing the file in your website's root directory. The robots.txt file should contain the following code:

`Disallow: /admin/`
`Disallow: /wp-admin/`
`Disallow: /wp-includes/`
`Disallow: /wp-content/plugins/`
