`<object data-type="application/x-shockwave-flash" data-src="file.swf" data-flashvars="&utm_source=seo">`

Flash is a software package that enables interactive content to be embedded into a web page. It is used for a variety of purposes, including creating animations, interactive forms, and video player controls. Flash content is typically created using Adobe Flash Professional and is distributed as a SWF file. When a user visits a web page that contains Flash content, their browser downloads the SWF file and executes it, allowing the interactive elements to function.

✖ Iframe `<iframe src="http://www.example.com/frame.html">`

An iframe (inline frame) is an HTML element that allows one document to embed an object from another document into itself. This is often used to embed content from another website, such as a video player or a social media widget. The src attribute of the iframe tag specifies the URL of the content to be embedded. However, it's important to note that iframes can pose security risks, such as cross-site scripting (XSS) and clickjacking, if not implemented correctly.
