Flash is a software platform for creating rich Internet applications. It is a cross-platform software framework for developing solutions that run in the browser. Flash is used to create animations, interactive web pages, and video content. It is a proprietary software developed by Adobe Systems. Flash is a vector graphics format that allows for high-quality images that scale without loss of quality. It is also used for creating interactive content, such as quizzes and surveys. Flash is a popular choice for creating rich Internet applications because of its ability to create high-quality, interactive content that runs in the browser. However, Flash is not supported by all browsers, and it is being phased out by major browsers. Therefore, it is important to use alternative technologies, such as HTML5 and CSS3, to create rich Internet applications that are compatible with all browsers.

✓ Iframe `<iframe src="http://www.example.com" data-bbox="100 100 200 200" style="display: inline-block; vertical-align: middle;">X`

An iframe is a HTML element that allows you to embed another document inside the current document. It is used to embed content from another website, such as a video or a social media widget. Iframes are used to create a seamless user experience by allowing content from different sources to be displayed together. However, iframes can be used to create security vulnerabilities, such as clickjacking and phishing. Therefore, it is important to use iframes responsibly and to implement security measures to protect your users. For example, you can use the sandbox attribute to restrict the permissions of the embedded content. You can also use the allow attribute to specify which permissions are allowed. Finally, you can use the allowfullscreen attribute to allow the embedded content to be displayed in full screen mode.
